THE PROBLEM Golf is a seasonal sport in a year-round market In two-thirds of the developed world, golf shuts down for five to seven months a year. Winter erases the season. The only "solution" the market has offered is the simulator — a screen, not the game. A simulator is not golf. No real turf, no walk, no shot you can read off the ground. Serious golfers know the difference — and there is no venue that lets them play an actual course when it's cold. 5–7 MONTHS GOLF CLOSING 0 REAL INDOOR COURSES Every winter, demand exists with nowhere to go. THE SHIFT The way people play golf has already changed For the first time in the sport's history, more Americans play golf off-course than on it. Demand has moved indoors — but the product hasn't caught up. 32.9M OFF-COURSE GOLFERS (U.S.) > 26.6M ON-COURSE GOLFERS (U.S.) The category is real. What's missing is a place to play a real course indoors. Megalodome is built to capture exactly that gap — not with screens, but with genuine, walkable golf under a climate-controlled roof. Confidential — accredited investors only. Not an offer to sell or solicitation to buy any security; the offering is made solely through the Confidential Private Placement Memorandum of MEGALODOME GOLF Equity Fund I LLC under Rule 506(c) of Regulation D.
